Dear Tim:

I believe it is accurate to say that Roger Wood's fire would have been more devastating if we had not employed the services of your company. Due to our lack of experience in these matters, thankfully, and our focused time being spent on rebuilding and maintaining our market position, the insurance company was held to task by your professional group of auditors, accountants and other required personnel.

What we thought initially was a simple matter turned into a very complex claim both in scope and political wrangling with the insurer. Your company's willingness to stand in the gap during some extremely tough moments was appreciated by our staff as we were faced with potentially business halting consequences.

I would recommend GGG to anyone who had an operating business like ours, highly competitive and market focused, that found themselves in the unfortunate position we were in following our fire. The relief of not having to deal with adjusters while you focus on business reclamation plans was invaluable in our case. The difference in the dollars received from the insurance company could have been an insurmountable obstacle to the future of the business but was not due to your team's diligence.

Once again, thank you and good luck to you and your future clients that are looking for options during a pressure generating situation.

Sincerely,
